THE WOMAN I AM TODAY

With my passion for and knowledge and experience of surviving sexual abuse and domestic violence, I am certain that I would be an asset in helping others to overcome the traumas of childhood incest and abuse.

During my years of incarceration, I have not ceased to grow into a woman who my children, family, and friends are proud of; nor have I shied away from any opportunity to help those in the community in which I reside. If I am paroled, this would not change. I will continue to assist others heal and grow just as I have done for decades.
